I am a British South African (pure Afrikaans) and am a journalist and teacher. I also learned the language as a child and speak it fluently with just a few grammatical glitches here and there. I have a website dedicated to Afrikaans culture, and occasionally make podcasts on it but have not created a course as my music teacher believes it is more important to write great texts that the right music. The subject I chose in my high school’s final exam was Afrikaans and I got A grade so it is not as if I am not worthy of creating a course. So I started to read some of the questions and comments and realised that many of them focus on syntax, grammar or translation. I have plenty of experience in all these areas but I want to focus on speaking because it is my strong point, with a great knowledge of vocabulary and I can even express myself in that language when I write. I have been trying to make a course for some time now but the few reviews I have seen were very negative and many of the comments were about my grammar mistakes. Please help me improve my course and my work and make it more of a first class product. Your feedback will be invaluable.Evaluation of metabolic indices to assess recurrence risks for lethal hyperglycemia in insulinoma patients. The objective d0c515b9f4
