Live wallpapers are considered to be a variant of the traditional wallpaper, however, they are usually displayed on the lock screen. Many users like the change to a dynamic rather than static image, as the animation serves to create the illusion of movement of the objects on the image.[1] To start a live wallpaper one must first install a third-party application on the mobile phone. After installation, the third-party application sets up the wallpaper for the phone to be displayed. The live wallpaper application periodically sends commands to the third-party application requesting that a new image be loaded. The image is then drawn in the correct positions on the screen in a continuous loop to give the impression of motion. Free Live Wallpapers Things a live wallpaper can do: Animations (fading in, bouncing, spinning, or rotating) One or more frames per second One or more random colors or drawing styles Interactive or "feature" images (image turns on or off, blink or spin) Flexible 77a5ca646e
